About the State

A party walking in the fields of Morristown Sunday found a bed of ripe strawberries and many blossoms.

The Rutland board of aldermen has voted to build a reservoir at a site suggested near the present one, the construction being such that the pond may be used alone or in connection with the present system.

The town safe that contained the town records and papers that went through the recent fire in Elmore, was opened Monday morning. The contents were found to be all right, only the covers of the record books being somewhat charred.

A flock of geese flying over the head of a horse driven by Dr. R. W. Warner of St. Johnsbury, Sunday, frightened the animal and caused it to run away throwing out the doctor and his wife and badly bruising them. Dr. Warner was unconscious for a few minutes and one ear was split open.

Mrs. James S. Kimball of West Burks died Saturday from the effects of a fall down the cellar stairs. Mrs. Kimball was 85 years of age and rather fee ble, but while left alone temporarily she attempted to earry some plants to the cellar, when she lost her balance and fell to the foot of the stairs. On arm was broken and she received such serious injuries to her head that she lived but a few hours and never regained consciousness.

Frank R. Wells and Dr. J.
